Objectives:

1. Educate participants about common risk factors that can impact the health of the elderly, such as chronic diseases, lifestyle choices, and genetic predispositions.
2. Provide information and resources to empower elderly individuals to take an active role in managing their health through self-care practices.
3. Highlight the significance of mental health in the elderly, addressing factors like depression, anxiety, and cognitive decline, and promoting mental well-being.
4. Facilitate community involvement to create a supportive environment that addresses social and environmental factors affecting elderly health.
5. Raise awareness about the importance of policies that support healthy aging and address factors influencing the well-being of the elderly population.

About this Activity:

All group members decided to conduct awareness regarding factors affecting elderly health and how to manage them. So every group member gather knowledge regarding the topic. On 22nd February 2024 they decide to conduct the awareness. The awareness was created by using powerpoint presentation made by themselves. Firstly, they introduced them regarding their activity. The presentation was done members enthusiastically. All of students listen to them very carefully and participated in discussion session enthusiastically. They gave the knowledge regarding the factors that effects geriatric patients. They also gave information regarding how these problems can be managed. This awareness made them realize the importance of senior citizens.
